Once again New York succumbs to a popular craze. The new ga "Pillow Dex," which has captured society, is a novel, laughable and exing game. It is played over a dining room table or across a line stretc on the carpet. The idea is to keep the "Pillow Dex" balloon, as it is stretc and fro, from landing on your side of the line. Ridiculous it may but it is the jolliest of exciting fun, and the little game has become a pnomenal fad. Its sale has increased so rapidly that the toy shops and partment stores have all they can do to supply the demand for the twen five and fifty-cent editions. A few years ago "Tiddledy Winks" made similar run. Now it is "Pillow Dex."
